

Policy on Accessibility

Peter J. Cayan Library, Utica

SUNY Polytechnic Institute's Peter J. Cayan Library in Utica aims to provide quality resources, user-centered services, and stimulating spaces to support the academic programs, research, and educational needs of students, faculty, and staff.

In accordance with the State University of New York's Electronic and Information Technology \(EIT\) Accessibility Policy, Library Accessibility Guidelines (page 19 of the linked document), and federal, state and local laws, library personnel will take reasonable measures to make library resources, services, and spaces accessible to all patrons.

Requests for accessible versions of library materials, or for the modification of services or spaces, can be made to library staff via library@sunypoly.edu, with the subject line Accessibility Request.

More information about library accessibility can be found on the Library Accessibility Website.
